ABOUT

Korys Studio is a Lithuania-based design studio specializing in branding, graphic design, and web design for clients across diverse sectors, including fintech, healthcare, real estate, and agriculture.

We translate business goals into visual systems that are clear, consistent, and built to last. From the first logo sketch to a full brandbook, or responsive website to a wayfinding system — every detail is considered, every decision purposeful.

PROCESS

01 Research

Every project starts with understanding your market, your audience, and what sets you apart.

02 Design with purpose

Visual systems built to hold together across every touchpoint — print, digital, and environment.

03 Complete delivery

From logo to brandbook, website to wayfinding — we see projects through to the last detail.

Visual identity

Web design

Markučiai is a residential neighborhood located in the northern part of Vilnius, Lithuania. It's known for its quiet atmosphere, green spaces, and proximity to nature while still being relatively close to the city center. Idea of this project was to establish a solid foundation for a reserved, yet friendly and thriving community. Primary audience — traveling couples, from all over the world, wishing for a step back from the city, without necessarily leaving it, and just a Bolt ride away from the airport (~7 km).

Brandbook

In today's competitive environment, quality alone is not enough for organizations to stand out. Continuous communication of values and vision is what helps build emotional connections and long-term relationships. This is especially important for institutions like the Mažeikiai Children and Youth Multifunctional Center, which seeks to teach through experiential learning.

Main goal of this project was to create a unique, cohesive visual identity that would reflect the center's values and attract visitors.

Who doesn't love a good ad? Especially if it's educational, informative or... fun! We believe the best ads don't just catch the eye, they start conversations, build connections, and make people genuinely excited to engage with your brand.
